

Are You Thin? Pale?

All run down, easily tired, nervous? And do not know what to take? Then go direct to your doctor. Ask his opinion of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It contains no alcohol, no stimulation, and is a blood purifier, a nerve tonic, a strong alternative, an aid to digestion. Ask your doctor about Ayer's non-alcoholic Sarsaparilla as a strong tonic for the weak.

SWATS HALF MILLION, PLUS.

MONROVIA, October 5.—Over half a million flies in two weeks, captured with four home-made traps, is the phenomenal record made by 8-year-old Chester Tifal, who won the first prize of $20 in the recently-concluded fly swatting contest conducted by Mayor Daund.

Thirty quarts, estimated at 552,500 germ-bearing pests, is the actual score of the youthful champion, and the fifteen other contestants brought up the grand total to something like three millions. Seventy-five dollars was distributed in prizes at the close of the contest, which was undertaken with the idea of arousing the interest of the citizens in the destruction of the pests, and in the proper care and sanitation of their possible breeding places.

In addition to the boys' contest, moving pictures, illustrating the manner in which flies carry infectious bacilli, were nightly exhibited to large audiences. The results have been better than the city fathers dreamed of. In almost every house there now stands a patent fly trap, garbage cans are kept tightly closed, and all other breeding places are carefully looked after. If modern methods of prevention will do the trick, Monrovia bids fair to become a fly-less town.

MUST KEEP DEBTS DOWN.

ANNAPOLIS, Maryland, October 7.—It is evidently the purpose of Capt. John H. Gibbons, superintendent of the Naval Academy, to keep midshipmen from getting into debt to any extent. It has been learned here that Captain Gibbons has called on midshipmen to render sworn statements at once as to their outstanding indebtedness. This is in line with the custom instituted by him a year ago.

It is a well known fact that in recent years many of the middies have gone largely into debt in connection with premature orders for uniforms and other wearing apparel. What amount of debts the authorities would permit the middies to assume is not known. It is said, however, that none of the students will be permitted to contract debts amounting to more than $200.

STILL DOING BUSINESS.

The smoking car was so full that when the stout man produced a bottle his seatmates—three of them—smiled in jocular relief.

"Who's gotta corkscrew?" he demanded. Nobody responded. The stout man looked around. Across the aisle was a thin person in a shabby black suit and a white tie. He was reading, in a short-sighted way, a gilt top volume with a limp cover.

The stout man leaned forward. "Betcha a tenner th' parson has a corkscrew," he hoarsely whispered.

"Done," said the man with the gray side-whiskers.

The stout man leaned across the aisle. "Beg pardon," he said, "but have you such a thing as a corkscrew about you?"

The man with the white tie hesitated. For a moment he seemed pained. Then he flushed a little, and reaching down he pulled out the corker and the thing he wanted.

Ten minutes later the stout man said how as going back to look for a friend. At the next station the white tie man gathered up his goods and chattels and left the car. Then came the conductor.

"Did Fatty Frost and 'the parson' show you any of their team work?" he laughingly asked.

"Team work!" echoed the side-whiskered man.

"They're the cleverest swindling pair in the country," said the conductor, and passed on.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

KEEPING UP WITH FATHER.

Dr. George W. Bowling, the inaugurator of the anti-kissing movement, told an old kissing story at a luncheon in Lindsay, Oklahoma.

"A boy," he said, "decided to fool his mother. Accordingly he ran into the sitting room and cried:

"Oh, ma, there's a strange man in the kitchen kissing the cook."

"With a determined frown his mother rose and hastened kitchenward. But just before she reached the door the boy laughed and said:

"No it ain't a strange man, ma. It's only father."—El Paso Times.

ORGANIZING FOR RELIGIOUS WORK

Representative Men Choose the Head of Committee for the Campaign.

L. TENNEY PECK.

Chosen president of the committee for the local evangelistic campaign.

Clergymen and business men of the city to the number of eighty dined together in Cooke Hall at the Y. M. C. A. last night and heard Harry N. Holmes, advance representative for the Men and Religion Forward movement as represented by the Smith-Robins combination, explain the purpose of the pending visit to Hawaii of these two famous religious workers among men.

When Mr. Holmes had concluded the assembly enthusiastically adopted a resolution endorsing the action of the inter-church federation in arranging for the coming of Messrs. Smith and Robins and pledging support to the campaign. L. Tenney Peck was unanimously elected as president of the movement, and he will have charge of the work of preparing for the coming of the latter day evangelists. Other officers and committees will be selected later.

Bishop Restarick, in presenting Mr. Holmes, alluded to the benefit the churches of Honolulu will receive from this visit of evangelists who are preachers in preaching masculine Christianity.

Emphasis Upon "Men."

Mr. Holmes explained what the Men and Religion Forward Movement stands for, and said that in the title of this endeavor emphasis is put upon "Men." Religion, he said, made men as it made nations. He declared that without religion a moral code is useless, and that religion is useful to the state as a great police power, inasmuch as one policeman in a man is far better than a dozen policemen on the outside.

He reviewed the history of the movement from its inception early in 1910, to the beginning of the great campaign in October of the same year. The success of the movement, he said, had been due to the fact that it created no new organization, but used the local church as an organ, supplying it with new equipment to carry on its work. The organization of the Men and Religion Forward movement no longer exists, he said. It delivered its message and the churches are now carrying on the work.

Mr. Holmes said that of the six planks constituting the platform of the movement, that of social service had attracted the most interest, and he read letters from John Mitchell and Doctor Lyman Abbott in which appreciation was expressed of the impetus given by the movement toward a change for the better in social conditions and in teaching the brotherhood of man.

The plank on boys' work had proved of much value to those interested in boys, because it taught them to understand boys.

The community extension work, he said, had brought thousands of men into the church, and he cited the case of Wichita, Kansas, where he said one thousand one hundred men were added to the church in a few weeks.

The platform of the movement is so wide, he said, that it is easy for every man to find some one feature in it of special interest on which he can work.

Plans for Honolulu.

As to the meetings in Honolulu, Mr. Holmes said it is planned to hold two daily, one under the leadership of Fred Robins, the first will handle the planks of evangelism, Bible study and community extension, and Robins those of social service, boys' work and Christian publicity.

He said that in Fred R. Smith and Raymond Robins the people will see and hear the two strongest men of the great campaign waged on the mainland, and closed by saying that it rested with the men to make the campaign memorable in Honolulu.

Doctor Scudder, in a few words, welcomed the movement as one abreast the spirit of the age, and one which the present atmosphere of the city favored. The social appeal he considered the strongest point of the movement. The country is crying for a change from present conditions, where the rich are getting richer and the poor poorer, he said.

"We are sick of it all," he averred, and any political party that can give us this change will get our votes."

Others of the clergy and laity voiced their appreciation of the coming visit and of the good which it is believed Messrs. Smith and Robins will accomplish by their mission.

OUT HUNTING.

The hunting season's open now, Bang, bang!

Was that an ibex or a cow? Bang, bang!

It was a gnu as like as not And they are rather hard to pot, But anyhow I'll try a shot. Bang, bang!

I want a tiger or a moose Bang, bang!

And so I turn my gatling loose, Bang, bang!

Much shot and powder I expend. But get a fat deer I intend, But only get a dear old friend, Bang, bang!

MILITANCY ISURGED ON AMERICAN SISTERS

Miss Parkhurst Calls Eastern States "Hidebound" in Discussing Woman Suffrage.

PARIS, October 5.—Miss Christabel Pankhurst, who is dwelling in Paris, in a condition of more or less pronounced banishment, is now devoting her powers as a propagandist to a world-wide movement of feminism. In a recent interview Miss Pankhurst said:

"The Eastern States of America are getting so hidebound that in order to get any legislation favorable to women they will have to adopt the English system—that is to say, they will have to break the laws.

"Our American sisters think we go too far in England. We don't. England has become so conservative that there is only one way of waking her up, and that is by breaking the laws. We deliberately make ourselves a nuisance, and will continue to do so until we get what we want.

"We make ourselves the most important widow of the Bible. Drastic measures are necessary. They are also necessary in your Eastern States, and for the same reason. The Western States are more favorable to justice for women. Where things are solidified as they are in the East, the constitutional means are slow. If women have to go on winning State by State the process is slow. The ideal way of bringing about votes for women would be an amendment to the Constitution.

Activity in Canada.

"In Canada we are trying to get a federal act giving women votes. Mr. Roosevelt has declared for woman's suffrage, but apparently only in State by State. Such a declaration is not worth much. In six States of the Union where women vote their votes are an important factor and should be used as a lever to force presidential candidates to come out squarely for woman suffrage. These States give American women an excellent opportunity of making presidential candidates declare themselves. If woman voters act as one and make the enfranchisement of women in other States the sole object, victory is in sight.

"In England we have reached a crisis." The hunger strike adopted by suffragettes who are put in jail brings the situation to a point of solution. The government cannot imprison the bulk of the women of England; there would not be room enough for them; and then, having adopted the hunger strike, how is the government going to keep them alive? Compulsory feeding does not work and the government admits failure. Therefore, it comes that the British government has to kill us or give us the vote, or allow us to go on making England a nation of lawbreakers.

Movements Peculiarity.

"A curious thing about our movement is this: While almost all admit we are right, men are slow to take action. We began our militancy in a mild way, but found we had to follow it out to a logical conclusion. The government forced us by dealing out severe punishment, and we were suffering more than the enemy. Now it is proposed to give manhood suffrage all over the United Kingdom without consulting the women of the nation or giving us a vote. No wonder we commit serious acts of militancy.

"Furthermore, we have forced a new problem on the government. Suppose Bill Sykes were to adopt a hunger strike. In other words, suppose all the prisoners in England would refuse to eat, what would the government do? Either let them out or have several hundred thousand corpses on hand. Simultaneously our sisters in Finland have demonstrated how useful woman can be as members of parliament. They have helped materially to pass clean and useful legislation."

PRINCE OF WALES TO SHOW BRITISH WAY

LONDON, October 5.—There is every reason to believe that the first English prince who will have the satisfaction of traversing the Panama Canal will be His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales.

Lady Desborough, who is closer to the throne than any other woman in England, is quoted as authority for this statement. Her ladyship is the Queen's fish woman of the bedchamber—in other words, the "royal gossip," as the witty (but horrid) Lord Byron used to put it. That the announcement should be allowed to leak out just now shows how very little importance is attached at court to the unfortunate difference of opinion as to tolls and all such perplexing political puzzles. The idea is that His Royal Highness will proceed in the first instance to Canada, where he will be met by the Duke of Cornwall, and will make the acquaintance of the social world in the eastern provinces. He will then take train for the West, and proceed to Vancouver, where he will get his first sight of the Pacific. There the prince will embark upon a British cruiser and travel down the coast to Panama.

Father's Footsteps.

When he gets into the Gulf of Mexico, he will naturally go on to Jamaica, and other British possessions in that region. While cruising along the western coast of America he will be on ground which was untouched by King George in the course of his Barchante voyage, but on reaching the West Indies he will be in a region which was the first portion of his empire, outside Europe, with which his father became familiar when engaged in that memorable cruise. It was at Jamaica that His Majesty first worked a heliograph, the message which he sent being birthday congratulations to a messmate on board the Barchante.

If the Prince of Wales indulges in any experiences of that sort, he is not likely to be content with anything less up-to-date than "wireless."

COMMERCIAL QUICK DECLINE SHOWN ON UNSTEADY MARKET

Light Trading Feature of New York Exchange Due to Liquidations.

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)

NEW YORK, October 21.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Selling pressure and light trading were the notable characteristics of today's stock market. United States Steel, Philadelphia & Reading, Canadian Pacific and a few other leaders sold off sufficiently to attract attention. Copper shares yielded less here than abroad. Lehigh Valley was the one exception of the railways, gaining a point. Dealings were of an ultra-professional character, the possibility of some important decisions being handed down by the Supreme Court of the United States tending to restrict public interest. Standard stocks gradually weakened again, owing to the concentration of speculative interests in the manipulated specialties.

The market closed weak. The greatest activity occurred in the final hour, when urgent selling of the leaders resulted in net losses of from two to four points. Further foreign liquidation was ascribed as one of the causes of the decline.

GOOD RAINS MAY BE HELP TO BROKERS

A little dabbling in Honolulu Consolidated Oil at $1.40 and Oahu at $2.60, a price that has run so long that it has become standard, some sales of Hilo R. R. Extension bonds, and the tale of the street is told for one day. The good rains which fell during Saturday night and Sunday night may send stocks up a trifle. The statement in this column that Oahu might pass a dividend seems to have been criticized on "Wall Street." The statement was not made as a fact, merely a possibility, and it is one that still holds good. It is true that $600,000 was carried over from last year and as much may find place on the balance sheet this year; but the feast may be followed by a famine if the water problem is taken into consideration; it will cost much money to get water to a position where it will do good, even after the much-hoped-for tunnel is completed. There is no attempt being made to belittle the stock. To say that once there is a perfect water supply, it will be the best plantation in the Territory is pretty close to facts.

LANDS CONTRACT.

On its tender of sixty cents per lineal foot, the Honolulu Iron Works has been awarded the contract to supply 10,000 feet of six-inch pipe, which is to be used in connecting the new Palolo water source with the city water supply. The bidding for this piping was extremely close, Catton, Neill & Co. offering to furnish it at $6.308 per foot, and H. Hackfeld Company to supply it at $6.2225 per lineal foot.

NEW FIRM.

On November 1, Lemuel C. Ables and James T. Armitage will form a partnership to engage in the business of real estate and general commission on Merchant street. Mr. Ables is well known here, and Mr. Armitage, while not long a resident, has connections which make estate in large chunks which will soon be put on the market in lots for residence purposes.

OPTICAL ILLUSION.

"I must congratulate you on your boy, Josh," said the old friend. "I thought from what you said he was inclined to put on airs and despise work."

"Well," replied Farmer Cornsloss, "has anything happened to make you change your mind?"

"Certainly. He must be a great help to you. I saw him the other evening going down the road with a big straw hat and overalls and carrying a pitchfork over his shoulder."

"Oh, yes," replied the farmer with a sigh. "Your mistake is only natural. Josh was going to a costume ball."
